It's time to kick-off the 2025 Call for Papers with a Quality Jam. This will be an evening of lightning talks to inspire and be inspired for new proposals on software quality — a jam session to get together as a group and see where the "music" takes us.

Make a new year's resolution to build your career by increasing your quality know-how and skills and make some new connections with other software quality professionals. The first hour will provide time for networking and a chance to share some food and drink.

The tentative line-up includes:

Who's Watching The Machines? Using AI To Test GenAI-Written Code - Yunao Jiao

Public Speaking for Engineering Professionals - Philip Lew

A Metaphor for the Agile Mindset - Moss Drake

2025 Cybersecurity and AI: Predicting the Unpredictable - Caroline Wong

From X to Z: Helping Early Career Professionals And Their Leaders - Ellen Raim

Open-Book Testing - Jon Bach

The event, to be held live in Portland, Oregon will also be streamed online.
